Dear Mrs. Luella Bates Washington Jones,

To start things off, I'm very sorry for trying to steal your pocketbook, I know that was the worst way to make a first impression. The reason I tried to steal your pocketbook was because I was being selfish. I wanted a new pair of blue suede shoes.

When I think about it now trying to steal your pocketbook was the best mistake I've made. If it wasn't for your kindness Mrs. Jones, I would not be able to become a better person. You really changed me, thank you for not taking me to jail, for feeding me, and for cleaning me up. I will never forget the kind things you did for me that night.

Once again I'm very sorry for my actions and I really do appreciate the things you did for me like feeding me, taking care of me and not taking me to jail. Thank you for the advice, and for everything.

Yours truly,

Roger
